

The Q Guild would like to invite you to a really exciting 2 venue visit on Monday 8th and Tuesday 9th April 2019

Monday 8th pm

Rhug Estate, Corwen, Denbighshire LL21 0EH

Rhug Estate made retail history last summer when Lord Newborough opened a Drive Thru to complement the Bistro, Takeaway and Farm Shop at the entrance to Rhug farm. It is the first Drive Thru, set up on a farm, in the UK.

Tuesday 9th am

Hollies Farm Shop, Little Budworth, Tarporley CW6 9ES

AGENDA

Monday 8 th April 2019
12pm - Meet at Rhug Farm Bistro, Welcome, Lunch and Introductions 1pm - Tour of the Cutting Plant 2pm - Farm tour of the Rhug Estate and Drive-thru. Presentation from Gary Jones Production manager Quick update from recent Q Guild Executive Meeting Any other business or comments	At the heart of Rhug Estate is Lord Newborough's commitment to an organic lifestyle. Rhug Farm is self-contained and a true 'field to plate' operation applying the highest standard of sustainability. Using the most sustainable farming practices Rhug prides itself on superior tasting meat products from the north Wales countryside. The organic farming enterprise extends to two farms and has grown over the past 20 years to nearly 8,000 acres. Organic beef, lamb, salt marsh lamb, bison, chicken, turkey, geese, Japanese Sika Deer and game, when in season, are reared on the farms and organic pork, eggs and fallow venison are sourced locally.
Rhug's team of highly skilled butchers cut, pack and dispatch our wide range of meats. Meats can be purchased from Rhug Farm Shop, Borough Market, London and online: www.rhug.co.uk and are served in our restaurant and take-away. They also supply many top Michelin restaurants, 5* hotels and independent delis. They export to the Far and Middle East. Waitrose use Rhug lamb and beef, sold under their own brand.
